

Lines.

Everybody is delighted with the fragrance and delicacy of the white water lily, and we buy them at the railroad stations in summer as good genii, which will dispel largely the lassitude, the depression and disgust of a hot day's ride in the sultry and cindery cars. Very few but have, at one time or another, wished that they might be able to propagate so sweet a flower. The following mode has proved successful: The roots, procured in the fall, are kept damp during the ensuing winter in flower-pots. In the spring a half-barrel, with the hoops well secured, is procured; if painted, so much the better, and set on bricks in the garden, and one-third filled with a mixture of garden earth, sand, and well-rotted manure. The roots are set in this and covered. Water is added gently, and a little at a time, every day or two (so as not to disturb the earth) till the tub is filled. In the fall the water is allowed to dry off, and the tub is placed in the cellar and watered at long intervals.

The Terrible Pellagra.

It is about 150 years since the pellagra made its appearance in Europe, first in Spain, afterward in France and Italy, and later in Greece and other countries. In Italy the scourge has assumed vast proportions. In the province of Bergamo alone, in the year 1878, at least 20,000 persons, it is calculated, were afflicted with the terrible epidemic, almost 10 per cent. of the agricultural population of that province. The effect of the malady is a complete degradation of the physical and intellectual powers. The greater part of the victims either die in the insane asylums and hospitals, or commit suicide, leaving the seeds of the malady in sad heritance to their children. This is a terrible picture, and Signor Albergotti, a member of the Provincial Commission of Bergamo, from whose reports lately published, I gather the above particulars, advocates the most urgent and stringent measures on the part of the Government to arrest the ravages of the disease. As it has been incontestably proved that the pellagra made its appearance and increased with the increased civilization of man, that—whatever the differences of soil, climate, race, social regulation, manners and customs—these paces only are affected where the food of the agricultural population consists chiefly in maize. That is the shape of pottage or bread, and that even those nearly affected with the malady are specially cured if their diet be varied with meat, vegetables, the Signor Albergotti advocates a radical reform in the food of the agricultural laborers. He proposes that economic kitchens, superintended by provincial commission and regulated according to the size of the parishes and the number of persons afflicted with the disease should be established, and that medical officers of the parish, at the first sign of the pellagra invading a district or town, should have the power to give tickets to the agricultural laborers enabling them to partake of the benefits of such economical kitchens. Thus, he says, is the best, most rapid and efficient way to put an end to the epidemic.—Naples Cor. Leman Daily News.

The Use of Pain.

The power which rules the universe, this great, tender power, uses man as a signal of danger. Just, generous, benevolent nature never strikes a soul new, never sends us beyond our backs; never does it, in its ways, amuse; never wears a smile upon her face when there is vengeance in her heart. Patiently she teaches us her laws, plainly she writes her warnings, tenderly she grades their force. Long before the fierce, red, danger-light of pain is flashed, she pinches us with as though for her own sake, not ours—to be merciful to ourselves and to each other. She makes the over-worked brain to wander from the subject of its labors. She turns the over-inflamed body against the delights of yesterday. This is her caution signal. "Go slow." She stands in theatty courts and alleys that we pass daily, and beckons us to enter and realize with our sense what we allow to exist in the mind of the culture of which we bring. And what do we do ourselves? We apply whip and spur on the jaded brain as though it were a pining horse—force it back into the road which leads to madness, and on full gallop. We drug the rebellious body with stimulants, we hide the original and think we have escaped the danger, and are very festive before night. We turn aside, as the Pharisee did of old, and pass on the other side with our handkerchief to our nose. At last, having broken nature's laws and disregarded her warnings, forth she comes—drums beating, colors flying—right in front! to punish us. Then we go down, on our knees and whimper about it having pleased God Almighty to send this affliction upon us, and we pray Him to work a miracle in order to reverse the natural consequences of our disobedience, or save us from the trouble of doing our duty. In other words, we put our fingers in the fire and pray it will not hurt.

Color-Notions.

An English lady writes: "I think our English color notions are taking a turn to the better. The melancholy, autumnal greens and yellows of a decade or two past have almost disappeared, and the dark shade of red so much even now is perfect in its way. Brunettes should be thankful for it, as well as for the beautiful gold color, which was so dominant in dresses until two or three years ago. Blondes can wear it too if they do not incline to pallor. I noticed a superb blonde at a recent dinner fantastically attired in gold brocade—a shade darker than her hair, and relieved with golden-brown velvet borders. The effect justified the name 'golden complexion'."

WAGER $500.00

To Whom it May Concern.

Baring the thunderstorm in August, 1882, the County of Middlesex, Ont., alone suffered to the extent of from $50,000 to $85,000 in the destruction of dwellings, barns and other buildings. Not one of the structures consumed was furnished with rods from the Globe Lightning Rod Company of London, although there are thousands and thousands of feet of our rods erected upon the farm houses and barns in Middlesex Co., and over 10,000 being erected within the city limits alone during the past two years, the statements of a few witnesses to the contrary notwithstanding. The Globe Company, in order to show their confidence in the goods manufactured and sold by them, are prepared to place the sum of $500.00 in the hands of His Worship the Mayor (or any other responsible citizen in London), against a similar amount of deposited by any person or persons who can prove, that a building provided with suitable rods from the Globe Company has been struck during either of the recent thunderstorms which have visited Western Ontario. The money to be divided between the different charitable institutions in Brandon. Orders by mail promptly attended to.

The Brandon Daily Mail.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 27, 1882.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

We understand that copies of the Provincial Acts of 1882 are not to be had for love or money, and that there is considerable demand for them. We hope the Government will order a reprint without delay.

The theological editor of the Winnipeg Times in a late issue of that journal elaborates on the subject of justification and assurance. There is no doubt in these days degenerated that one requires a great deal of assurance before he is authorized to expect much justification, though it is open to question how far the editor of a political daily has a right even with an inordinate amount of assurance to expect much justification or sanctification either.

The Buffalo Courier is one of our ablest exchanges. We notice that it has lately been lecturing the Toronto Mail and Globe on the subject of political partisanship. The Courier thinks that the ultimate effect of this partisanship will be very injurious to the Dominion. This is true, still partisanship is a mixed evil. No doubt much of this bitterness of party is to be regretted as it intensifies animosity. The press itself might indulge in less of it. Indeed we really believe that the tendency of advanced journalism in Canada is to have but little partisanship and consequently less bitterness.

Some of our exchanges are publishing in their columns a list of the subjects within Federal jurisdiction, and those subjects which are exclusively assigned to Provincial Legislatures. These subjects are all set forth in the B. N. A. Act, and the veto power of the Dominion Parliament in certain cases is very plainly stipulated. It is the veto power which appears to interfere with the autonomy of provinces. To abolish this veto power absolutely will not do in view of contracts already entered into. It may however be modified without prejudice to Federal or Provincial powers, rights and responsibilities. This will doubtless prevail with a majority of the proposed interprovincial convention.

SUMMER RESORTS.

With the growth of our young and prosperous city will come the question of a summer resort for our citizens during the hot summer days which, judging from to day are already upon us. Every respectable city has its place of resort for those who wish to enjoy a few days recreation from business cares.

It is not everyone that can take a month and go down to the shores of the sounding sea, or tent along the margin of the lake which catches the cool and delicious breezes. Our citizens must have a Saratoga, a long branch of their own to which they can repair without great expense or loss of time. When the summer days are weary with the beatings of something akin to a sirocco and buntum he settled down to the quietness of the dog days; it is proper that there should be a cool place near at home where the mind can rest as the body may enjoy a short respite from the overburdening cares of business demands. It is a long way from the fashionable summer resorts of the eastern millionaires, and although there is often a great deal of life to be seen at such places, much of the alleged enjoyment of such scenes is fictitious. To our mind there is near our city the place which a little enterprise can make what will suit the most fastidious lover of summer enjoyment. If Beautiful Lake is really what it is represented to us to be what it is the idea of making it a permanent summer resort will be materialized at once. Life is short and all work without a little play is a dreary reality which must produce its injurious effects on our people sooner or later. Nothing to our mind is more enabling than those many sports and recreations which tend to produce sound physical development, for there is a corresponding advancement of the mental as well as the moral facilities and instead of a puny sickly generation, we shall have a hardy, vigorous and healthy race, that does not wither at the first breath of adversity or severity, but can withstand, without a shudder, the fierce winter blizzards of our bracing climate.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The columns of the Mail are open for the discussion of all matters of public interest. Correspondence on all appropriate subjects is solicited and will receive due attention. Communications should be reasonably brief and to the point. While publishing letters on subjects of public interest, the Mail will not necessarily be always responsible for the opinions of its correspondent.

YORKSHIRE HOUSE, BRANDON, June 23.

To the Editor of the Mail.

Sir.—If there is any law to prevent cruelty to animals in Brandon, the sooner the same is put in force the better, and the authorities have only to look in the outskirts of the city to find plenty of canes to operate on.

It seems to be a disgrace to any civilized community to see the way that cows and horses are abused in these parts.

Yours, etc.,

JOHN WAKE.

We take it for granted that there is a civic by-law covering the offence mentioned by Mr. Wake. If there is no such by-law we would call on one of our worthy aldermen to introduce one into the council. There should in addition, be established here a branch of the well known Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. [ED. MAIL.]

PROVINCIAL POINTS.

The investigation into the management of the Winnipeg small-pox hospital was to close today.

The forms for application for patents under the new Act have been received at the General Lands Office, Winnipeg. They have been distributed to the various agents throughout the province.

At the close of the Emerson election the other day a number of Conservatives, including Mr. Nursey, had an impromptu gathering at the Russell House, when speeches were made by several prominent gentlemen, and mutual congratulations extended in reference to the Conservative victory.

A Rest at a Restaurant.

It is an awkward thing to be absent-minded. The story is told of a certain Philadelphia gentleman, who discovered this at his cost. It so happened that the dining-room of the club which he frequents was quite full, when a man who chanced to know his particular failing came in very hungry. The waiter, who had the newcomer there was no room at present. Spying our absent-minded friend comfortably seated and reading the newspaper, a brilliant idea struck the hungry man.

"Has Mr. A. dined yet?" he questioned.

"No, sir," replied the waiter.

"Well, never mind, take him his bill and tell him he had his dinner."

The waiter hesitated a moment, and then appreciating the situation went over to Mr. A. and handed him his bill. "What is this for?" quoth the poor fellow.

"For your dinner, sir."

"My dinner—ah! Have I really had it?"

"Yes, sir," rejoined the waiter in all innocence.

"Dear me, I had an idea I was waiting for it. What a curious mistake."

And with a contemplative smile Mr. A. sauntered out of the room, leaving his table to the use of the genius who had profited by his absent-mindedness.
